

CARRANZA BACKS
UP VILLA'S ACT

Rebel General Justifies Expulsion of Spaniards.

WILL NOT MOLEST PROPERTY

Attitude Toward Spanish Residents of Mexico Is Based on Alleged Active Participation in the Revolt in Favor of Huerta and Because Their Presence Tends to Inflame Insurgent Soldiers.

Juarez, Mex., April 9.—General Venustiano Carranza gave out a statement dealing with the expulsion of foreigners, justifying Villa's action and stating that Spanish property would not be confiscated.

A similar statement on confiscation was made by Isidro Fabela, Carranza's minister of foreign relations. The Carranza statement follows:

"The Spaniards have been deported from Mexico on account of their active participation in the movement in favor of Huerta. This expatriation of the Spaniards has been done as a favor to them in order to save them troubles of a serious nature. Their presence in Mexico tended to inflame our soldiers. In the case of Mexicans who have assisted the Huertistas the penalty is death.

"So far as Spanish property is concerned it will not be molested, as to do so would be contrary to the principles of this revolution. General Villa is perfectly justified in his action in driving out these obnoxious persons and his act is in accordance with our laws, as article 33 of the constitution says that all pernicious foreigners shall be deported, because we require an absolute neutrality of foreigners in Mexico.

May Be Allowed to Return.

"Later, after proper investigation, if it is found that any of these Spaniards have never meddled in political affairs, they will be allowed to return to Mexico.

"It is known all over the republic that the Spaniards have taken an active part in the politics of Mexico. They conspired in the overthrow of Madero and after that held a public manifestation and banquet at Vera Cruz in celebration of the event. Hundreds of them have come out openly and taken part with Huerta.

"One of the principal ones who might be named is General Rincón-Gallardo, commander of the rurales, who is a Spanish subject and retains his title of marquis. Although the Spaniards have the same language and customs as our country they cling to their nationality for the protection it has afforded them in oppressions of our people. They rarely become Mexican citizens, although they mix actively in our politics."

General Villa took over the four principal banks of Torreón, according to a report which he telegraphed to this city.

His prize does not include money or negotiable securities, however, as the bankers took the precaution of shipping these when Velasco evacuated the country. He has the buildings and furniture.

OPPOSES LEASING SYSTEM

Governor Ammons Says It Makes Monopoly Easier.

Denver, April 9.—State rights advocates at the conference of the Western governors here attacked the Ferris bill for leasing the public domain and demanded a return to the old system of acquisition of government lands.

Governor Ammons of Colorado declared that "under the fostering care of the forestry bureau has grown up the greatest trust I know anything about—the lumber trust."

He declared that the only difference between leaseholding and ownership of land is "that you can monopolize cheaper under a lease," and said that if the government is going to make money out of the public lands it should pay taxes and obey the state laws.

Senate and House Discuss Regional Reserve Cities.

SOUTHERNERS LEAD DEBATE

Argument in Senate Centers on Choice of Atlanta and Dallas Over New Orleans.—In the House Representative Glass Defends Selection of Richmond and Ridicules Idea That Politics Entered Into Any of the Decisions.

Washington, April 9.—Hot debate over the selection of the twelve regional reserve cities for the new federal banking system marked sessions of both houses of congress.

The argument in the senate, which centered on the choice of Atlanta and Dallas over New Orleans, preceded the introduction of a resolution by Senator Hitchcock calling upon the organization committee for all its data and the reasons upon which the fixing of reserve districts was based. Objection by Senator Swanson forced consideration of the resolution over.

Southern senators did most of the talking. Senator Ransdell of Louisiana declared an effort would be made to have the federal reserve board overrule the selections of the organization committee.

In the house the advantages of Richmond, Baltimore, Atlanta and New Orleans were discussed. Representative Glass of Virginia, chairman of the banking and currency committee, made a lengthy speech in defense of Richmond.

Mr. Glass said Richmond, with its 124,000 population, had double the loans in the South than New Orleans, with 400,000 population, had, and that Richmond was the creditor of Baltimore and not its debtor. He ridiculed the idea that politics had anything to do with any of the selections.

KILLS FOUR MEN

Several Others Suffer More or Less Serious Injuries.

The Dalles, Ore., April 9.—Three men were killed instantly, one was hurt so seriously that he lived only a few minutes, another's nose was blown off and three others were less seriously injured by an explosion on the Dalles-Celilo canal works, a mile and a half east of here, when a government steam shovel struck a "missed hole" and discharged a tremendous blast of dynamite.

The dead are Edward Kendler, Alex Lind, Edward Ryan and C. A. Drich. With the exception of Kendler, the engineer of the shovel, all were laborers known as "pit men."

Arthur Eckerson, a powder man, was the one whose nose was blown off. Kendler was seated in the engine room door. The blast hurled him through the door and into the engine room, where he was caught in the cogs of a big wheel. His body was torn to pieces.

SEE NATIONAL PROHIBITION

Recent Elections Delight Northwest Temperance Workers.

St. Paul, April 9.—St. Paul anti-saloon workers are jubilant over the result of Tuesday's "dry" and "wet" battle through the Northwest and declared that the gain for the "dry" forces indicates the near arrival of national prohibition.

National prohibition by 1920 was predicted by Dr. C. A. Stevens of Trinity Methodist church. "There is no question that if the women were given suffrage the feat in Illinois would be duplicated in Minnesota," said Dr. Stevens.

"If women were given national suffrage every state in the Union would be dry in twelve months," said Dr. S. T. Willis, pastor of the First Christian church.

One hundred and fifty saloons have been put out of business in the last two months in Minnesota, according to Dr. George B. Safford of Minneapolis, secretary of the State Anti-Saloon league.

MANY MEASURES
ARE NOW PENDING

No Chance For Adjournment Before Late Summer.

SENATE MOVES VERY SLOWLY

Vice President Marshall Voices Protest Against Existing Rules—Would Confine Speeches to Topics Under Consideration—Weaver of Oklahoma Talks For Texas.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, April 9.—[Special].—Nobody talks about congress adjourning by the first or even the last of June now, as everybody knows that it will be late in July, if not August, before the business of the session can be concluded. Even if there were not the Panama canal tolls question to occupy several weeks, there is a lot of other legislation that is bound to take much time.

The senate has not even begun to consider the immigration bill, while the house has not taken up the question of independence for the Philippines. There is a world of talk in that subject, and the fact that it has been delayed until this time may mean that it will not become a part of the legislative program at this session.

Then there is land legislation which touches the subject of conservation, some of it necessary, and before it gets through it is bound to occupy a great deal of time. Whether the country likes it or not, this session of congress is going to extend until well in the summer.

Talk In the Senate.

Just as an example of how the senate can occupy itself, take the resolution which limits the expenditure of each senator to $600 a year for telegrams at the government expense. "We have been talking three whole days on that subject," said Senator Smoot, "a most ridiculous performance and one which shows how trivial matters will occupy our time."

Almost any time the senate can take an hour or two in discussing a method of procedure, construction of the rules, or, when a constitutional point is involved, there is no telling when the debate will end.

The Vice President's Regret.

Not long ago Senator Jones of Washington was talking about a resolution which had been referred to the committee on foreign relations. It related to Panama, and Jones wanted some information, when Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska made the point of order that the Washington senator was not talking on a matter before the senate. Of course the point of order, being a parliamentary question, brought out quite a number of senators with their views, but it resulted in a declaration from Vice President Marshall, who expressed his regret that he had been compelled to rule, much against his desire, "that, in accordance with the custom of the senate, a senator can talk about anything he pleases regardless of what may be pending before the senate of the United States."

Several times the vice president has made similar remarks upon the rules and procedure in the senate—suggestions which the old timers do not receive with pleasure, for it is a reflection upon the method of procedure.

Talks For Texas.

Congressman Weaver of Oklahoma, discussing a pension bill, took occasion to speak for Texas as favorable to pensions for the soldiers of the republic, in spite of the opposition which has been manifested by Texan members of the house.

"I shall not hesitate to speak for Texas myself," said Weaver, "because my grandfather lived on the frontier of Texas when her flag of a single star was the ensign of a sovereign republic. My father in his young manhood went from Texas to the battlefield to give four years to the cause of Texas and the south, and when my infant eyes first opened on the dawn it was beneath the light of hellrope Texas skies."

And nobody denied his right to speak for Texas.

"My father was in the Black Hawk Indian war, in the Mexican war and in the civil war."

So stated Minority Leader Mann on the floor of the house during discussion of a pension bill. That ought to make a soldier of a man, even if he were not connected with the regular army. Mann recalled that he was one of the insurgents who helped to force the war with Spain and that he offered to go to the war, but the governor of Illinois said that he would render better service in congress.

Told Them So.

Congressman Stephens of New Hampshire, opposing the good roads bill, referred to the expense which it would entail and in the course of his remarks said that the revenues from the new tariff law had been less than were estimated at the time the bill was passed.

"We on this side of the house," interjected Congressman Langley of Kentucky, "told you that would be the case when the bill was under consideration." This, of course, was enjoyed by the Republican side, as a little politics is always relished in congress.

The two were accompanied by Mrs. Preston's elder daughter and younger son.

Professor Preston expects to spend a month in London working at the museums studying old manuscripts. In the meantime Mrs. Preston and the children will enjoy themselves sightseeing.

WISCONSIN VILLAGE
HAS SERIOUS BLAZE

Strong Wind Renders Work of Firemen Almost Useless.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., April 9.—The chief business section of Cadott, a prosperous village of 1,000 population, lies in ruins along one side of the main street, while buildings on the opposite side of the street are scorched and water soaked as the result of a fire which raged for three hours. The loss is estimated at $200,000, with insurance less than $100,000.

The fire started in the general store of the Cadott Supply company. A terrific explosion blew out the front of the store. It is believed an oil tank caused the blast. Two tons of dynamite, which had been placed in the basement a short time before the fire, was carted to safety.

A strong wind swept along the row of fifteen frame buildings, making the work of firemen almost useless. Showers of sparks were carried over the village, setting fire to forty houses and the venerable mill of Theodore Filts & Sons. All were extinguished. Citizens in all parts of the town began moving from their homes, expecting a general conflagration.

Soon after the arrival of aid from Chippewa Falls and Eau Claire the flames were checked.

Employers and Employes Advocate Conciliation.

FAVOR GOVERNMENT BOARD

Prominent Representatives of Capital and Labor Place Their Ideas of Avoiding Industrial Disturbances Before the United States Industrial Relations Commission.

Washington, April 9.—Settlement of industrial labor disputes by a mediation and conciliation board similar to that established under the Newlands act for the solution of railroad troubles was advocated by representatives of employers and employees here before the United States industrial relations commission.

The commission heard spokesmen for employers and employees of the printing and building trades and of the clothing industry.

George L. Berry of Tennessee, president of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' union, favored a governmental board to act when efforts to agree on arbitration fail.

Henry Struble of Chicago, secretary of the National Cut Stone Contractors' association, spoke in favor of compulsory government arbitration. He declared the result of industrial disputes is too serious to leave to the interested parties.

Newspapers employing none but union labor, said James M. Lynch of New York, former president of the International Typographical union, can produce more cheaply than non-union newspapers.

O. M. Eiditz of New York spoke on behalf of the employers of the building trades, declaring both sides must be thoroughly organized to get the best results and added that "most of the trouble is caused by young fellows who think they can beat the game."

ADMINISTRATION IS ELATED

Members Favorably Regard Treaty With Colombia.

Washington, April 9.—Undisguised gratification was felt by administration officials here at the prospect of finally healing the breach between the United States and Colombia through the treaty signed at Bogota. If this convention is ratified by the senates of the two countries it will close amicably a bitter controversy brought on by the secession of Panama in 1903 and the granting to the United States the canal zone, and which has cast a blight upon the relations between the United States and all Latin-America.

Colombia is granted the right to ship coal, salt and petroleum from her Atlantic to her Pacific ports, either through the canal or across the Panama railway, without any charge other than the cost of freight, no duty being assessed.

G. F. Edquist, of Nokay Lake township, has filed for the house from Crow Wing county. Mr. Edquist for some time represented his district as county commissioner. This is the third entry in the legislative race from this county, the others being W. A. Fleming and Edward R. Syverson.

It is announced that the housekeepers of Minneapolis will be able to save $200,000 a year on soap when the new process of softening water at the city filtration plant is completed. A little item of $200,000 on soap ought to go a long way toward reducing the high cost of living in the mill city.

An elimination meeting will be held at Baudette to decide who Beltrami county wants to represent the people in the house. This thing is catching, and even Bemidji threatens to eliminate on the senatorial question. It is really hard lines on the man who wants office to have the other fellow's friends tell him to get off the earth, especially when there is a primary election law to decide who will be the candidate.

LECTURES ON FUEL

George T. Conley, Fuel Supervisor of the Northern Pacific, at the Local Shops

George T. Conley, of St. Paul, fuel supervisor of the Northern Pacific railway, is at the shops today and tomorrow and will give lectures in his car on fuel consumption, economy in the use of coal, etc. Lectures will be delivered at 7:30 in the evening. The car is on coach track No. 5 near the general offices at the shops and will seat half a hundred or more people.

Instruction will be given to engineers and firemen of the N. P. and M. & I. railways and to all others interested in fuel questions. The city engineer and other officials of Brainerd and the public in general are welcome to attend.

At Duluth Mr. Conley conferred with the mayor and city council regarding smoke abatement.

The car is fitted up with a chemical laboratory, suitable appliances and apparatus, stereopticon outfit and slides illustrating lectures. The theoretical and practical sides of the question are discussed.

The Northern Pacific railway system annually spends about $8,000,000 for coal. It is proud of the record that it moved more freight per ton of coal used than any other western road was able to accomplish, which shows that instruction in the intelligent use of fuel is accomplishing results.

Mr. Conley gives three lectures, one a chemical demonstration, one a miniature gas plant demonstration and the stereopticon views. In short, he teaches the proper methods to handle a locomotive by using the minimum of coal and getting the most good out of the coal.

"Freckles," the gangster play of New York, was one of the most interesting yet seen at the Columbia. It will be shown again tonight. The augmented orchestra including Wm. Graham and Wm. Roderkirchen presented a beautiful program of real classics and some very snappy ragtime. The show in every particular was up to the standard of the Columbia's famous Sunday entertainments. Feeling greatly encouraged the management will repeat this new policy every Wednesday. "In the Bishop's Carriage," comes tomorrow afternoon and evening.

"Pilgrims Progress" at Grand

Music lovers will be pleased and interested to learn that Mrs. Leila Stanton Sanborn, violinist, will give the incidental music at the special performances of "Pilgrims Progress" Easter afternoon and evening. Her selections will include the classics and undoubtedly a rare treat is in store for the general public. Mrs. Sanborn will also give two numbers at the Saturday evening performances. Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Ingersoll will also assist on the Sunday's program and will play a beautiful arrangement of "The Holy City" for the piano and organ.

Aside from these extra good musical numbers the four reels film of "Pilgrims Progress" is a sermon and educational lesson that neither you nor your children can afford to miss. This wonderful story by John Bunyan is classed as the greatest allegory, and what an advantage it is to have the scenes and theme portrayed to us in this especially attractive way. The prices of this performance will be the same as usual, 5 and 10 cents, so that every one may take advantage of this Easter treat. The hours will be matinee 3 p. m. and 7:15 and 9 p. m.

ON THE EVE OF SEASON IN

High Spots In the Three Big Leagues—New Players of Promise.

AVANT the Panama dispute among our solons at Washington, the big row in Mexico, the home rule fight in Ireland and like bidders for the front page! We're on the eve of the baseball season! April 14 is the date. Then will the two major leagues begin the annual struggle for the pennant, while a day earlier the Federal league will make its debut. Nineteen fourteen is going to be the biggest year in baseball. Of that there is no doubt. The entry of a third big league this year and the consequent rivalry to annex star performers on the diamond is one of the principal contributing causes of the tense interest in the outcome of the games about to be played.

From the players' viewpoint this will be the biggest season because of the boosts in salaries due to the Federal competition with the two major leagues for seasoned veterans and promising youngsters. The Federals have taken a mighty array of players away from the Nationals and Americans.

Highest Paid Player.

Topping the list of high salaried players stands Tris Speaker, who will get $35,000 for two seasons with the Boston Red Sox. The Federals tried to sign up this wonderful outfielder, but the Red Sox management decided that $17,500 a season was not too much to pay to hold fast to him. Other dismond wonders have come not so far behind Speaker on the salary question. To give an idea of the cost of organized baseball the following figures are given:

To the club owners in the association of minor leagues the National and American leagues paid $371,000 for young players last season. Organized baseball represents investments of more than $10,000,000, the sum including only property holdings and not players that could be turned into cash. Minor league players in upward of 300 cities controlled by organized baseball draw salaries totaling more than $400,000 a month in the playing season. It costs more than $150,000 to operate a major league baseball club for one season, that being far below the expenses of a pennant aspiring team or one encountering reverses outside the won and lost columns of the league standing.

What the Managers Get.

The manager of a big league team these days has a job worth while from a pecuniary standpoint. For instance, take John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants. He is the highest paid man in organized baseball. His pay envelope for the season foots up $30,000 shekels. Second place so far as money goes is a toss-up between Frank Chance, manager of the Yankees, and Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics. The salaries of both are around the $20,000 mark. Tinker, manager of the Chicago Federals, also fares pretty well. He jumped to the new league after he had been sold to Brooklyn for $15,000.

With the season four new big league managers will make their bow. They are Herzog of the Cincinnati Nationals, who formerly covered third base for the New York Giants and starred in the world's series against Boston two years ago; Hank O'Day of the Chicago Cubs, who used to be an umpire and was manager of the Cincinnati team in 1912; Robinson of the Brooklyn, who has a fine record of several years with the Baltimore and who as Manager McGraw's chief assistant developed Marquand and Demaree, and Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Americans, who has been a coach for several college nines.

Hard Hit by the Federals.

The launching of the Federal league means that the two major leagues will suffer a loss of several hundred thousand dollars. The hardest hit clubs of the two big leagues are the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia Nationals and the Cleveland Americans. Had it not been for the fact that the Federals took a large number of their best players the Pittsburgh team, experts agree, could have entertained good hopes of winning the pennant. The Philadelphia Nationals have lost nearly all their greatest players to the newcomers.

While the Federals are not recognized by the Nationals or the Americans, widespread interest centers in their advent. It is an ambitious undertaking, is this new venture in the game which kills off so many grandmothers every year. James A. Gilmore, president of the new league, says that there is $50,000,000 behind the Federals, and he gives the list of backers, among which are numbered a dozen millionaires. Incidentally the richest club in the Federal list is the Brooklyn.

President Gilmore's league is seeking to arrange a round robin series between the three leagues for the world's championship, but Ban Johnson, acting officially for the national commission, says there is nothing doing on that proposition.

Federal League Pitchers.

Here are the pitchers enlisted by the Federal league:

Chicago—"Ad" Brennan, Philadelphia Nationals; Claude Hendrix, Pittsburgh Nationals; C. J. Watson, Milwaukee, American association; Thomas McGuire, semipro; John Glaser, semipro; Dave Block, semipro; Erwin Lang, semipro; Leo Prendergast, Peoria, I. I. I. league; Henry Schmidt, Milwaukee, American association.

Indianapolis—Fred Falkenberg, Cleveland Americans; George Mullin, Detroit Americans; Earl Moseley, Boston Red Sox; Fred Hartner, I. I. I. league, and George Kaiserling and Harry Billard, Indianapolis Federals.

St. Louis—William Morgan, Salt Lake City; Edgar Willett, Detroit Americans; E. Bushman, Highland, Ill.; G. Williams, St. Louis; Mordecai Brown (manager) and J. Herbert, Cincinnati; Otis Crandall, New York Nationals; Bob Groom, Washington Americans; Harry Cooper, St. Louis Federals; William Jenney, St. Louis.

Baltimore—Jack Quinn, formerly of Rochester and Boston Nationals; George Suggs, St. Louis Nationals; Frank Smith, Montreal; Irvin K. Wilhelm, Rochester; Joe Finneran, Philadelphia Nationals; Herbert Young, New Bedford, New England league; P. J. Conley, J. M. Allen and Jack Ridgeway.

Kansas City—Eugene Packard, Cincinnati Nationals; W. Stone, Oakland; Ben Harris, Denver, Western league; George Baumgardner, St. Louis Americans; Blanding, Cleveland Americans; Pete Henning, Ira Hogue and George Hogan, with the Kansas City Federals last year.

Buffalo—Russell Ford, New York Americans; Earl Moore, Chicago Nationals; George Kahler, Cleveland Americans; Eugene Krapp, Cleveland Americans; Fred Anderson, Boston Red Sox; Edward Purroy, Robert Brown and Harry Houses.

Brooklyn—J. A. Maxwell, Toronto; B. Sommers, Chattanooga; Edward Lafitte, Providence; Thomas Senton, Philadelphia Nationals; W. H. Chapelle, Chattanooga.

In spite of the fact that Gilmore and his associates put up the money for the enterprise, the real credit for the founding of the Federal league should go to three ball players—Tinker, Brown and Stovall. The entire fabric of the new organization was built around the Tinker deal, and once that had been consummated Brown and Stovall signed players right and left. Brown and Stovall are the leaders of St. Louis and Kansas City.

New Players of Promise.

A newcomer in major league baseball feels about as comfortable as a bridegroom on his wedding day. He may have the stuff in him, but a bad beginning means an uphill fight to regain a reputation, sacrificed to the snap judgment of stern critics in the bleachers, who are intolerant of "bonehead" plays by novices or seasoned players.

This intolerance of bad work hits the pitcher hardest. This year many new men from the small leagues will have their opportunity, the big opportunity that usually comes only once in a lifetime. There will be Quadas of the White Sox, Harry Harper of the Washingtons, Atchison of the Brooklyn, Palmero of the Giants, Pieh of the Yankees—all untired in the field of big endeavor, but likely in point of achievement. Other new men will be

Stock of the Giants, booked to take Herzog's place at third base, and Boone, probably at second for the Yankees.

Eyes on Veterans Too.

Next to the question, "Will the newcomers make good?" is the one, "Will the veterans show up in their old form?" Some baseball expert has said that a professional player is at his best at the age of thirty-five. But, granted that is true, the man who makes his living with bat and ball has only a few years after that age in which to bid for the plaudits of the multitude. As a rule forty will find him among the has-beens and his work only a memory among the "fans."

Hans Wagner, the Pittsburgh shortstop, is most famous of the veteran players who soon will be forced to quit because of his age.

But Wagner's future is provided for. He is a man of means, and Barney Dreyfuss, the Pittsburgh owner, has said he would give him a life position. This promise is a reward for his long services as a player and adviser with his team.

When Christy Mathewson's pitching days are over he, too, can have a life job in an advisory capacity with the Giants if he wants it, but Mathewson has said that when he dons the uniform he will quit the game for good. He is also on Easy street. Should he change his mind and stay in baseball he would probably be considered as a manager.

What the Prophets Say.

Predicting the outcome of a baseball season is about as much of a cinch as predicting the result of an election. Nevertheless, the dopest insist on anticipating things. Now, with the whole baseball world waiting for the magic words, "Play ball!" this is how they size up the situation:

In the National league the New York Giants and Pittsburghs will probably carry off first honors. This forecast is based largely upon the fact that the Giants have thrice won the pennant and Pittsburgh, winning the trophy in 1908, has held up well in subsequent seasons. Also, the Giants have McGraw, the peerless manager, and the Pittsburghers have Clarke, the oldest manager in point of service.

An important figure in the fortunes of the Boston Nationals is Johnny Evers, second baseman, who did such good work for Chicago in former years. With Evers' knowledge of inside baseball and the added strength of Boston's infield the Hub City stands a good chance of finishing ahead of Chicago.

In the American league the fight lies between the Philadelphia Athletics and Washington. The Athletics have marked up three world's series to their credit, and their infield is recognized as the best in the game. Washington has Walter Johnson, the best pitcher in the game, a fine catching staff, and the team as a whole can be depended upon for fast, heady work.

Much interest centers in whether Ty Cobb of the Detroit Americans, the greatest all around player in the business, will lead the batsmen of both leagues as he has the past three years. This is Cobb's eighth season in the game.

In the Federal league Knabe's Baltimore team and Tinker's Chicagos are pitted to lead. They seem to have the best combinations. Of course it is admitted that Miner Brown's St. Louis team may prove dangerous, for it has some crackjack boxmen.

A Lively Play.

"I heard one man," said the playwright, "who attended the premier of my new play last night complain that it was so late when he got out."

"Yes?" queried the critic.

"Yes, and yet the final curtain fell before 10:45."

"Ah, perhaps he overslept himself!"

A DREAM CITY COMING TRUE

Will Be "Metropolis of Human Knowledge and Progress."

PLANNED BY AN AMERICAN.

After interested King Leopold in Scheme Later Abandoned, but Now Revived—Great Center For World's Learned Men in Brussels to Be a Wonder Spot Three Miles Long.

Cosmopolis has started to rise in no-le proportions. The wonderful city which men have dreamed, written and talked of for centuries is already coming into existence in Belgium.

Years ago in Boston, continues the brooklyn Eagle, a young sculptor
named Hendrik Christian Andersen
conceived the idea of a city of palaces
and gardens, printing presses, telegraph instruments and telephones to which learned men of all countries should be attracted.

For years he and his collaborators worked. At last the plan was finished, and then the architects discovered that there was already a capital of the old world where men were storing in garrets and cellars archives which they oped their dream palaces would contain.

Andersen went at once to King Leopold II. of Belgium, and the American fitted and the monarch started to plan the creation in Brussels of a place of palaces where the learned of all countries were to work together for the common good. But differences rose. King Leopold proposed to command. His Cosmopolis was to be a world school. Andersen proposed to lead. His Cosmopolis was to be a center of clubs and friendly societies.

Foundation Laid by Leopold.

Finally Leopold laid the foundation of Cosmopolis in his royal park of Tervuren, seven miles from Brussels, and erected there the first of its buildings—the Colonial museum. That museum is now built and furnished. Only the foundations of the great world
school, next to it, were dug when King Leopold died. His successor, King Albert, and the Belgian government were appalled at the cost of the enterprise and ordered the work to cease.

Private enterprise then stepped in.
As a result the Association of International Societies was established in Brussels, having as its working head
the Socialist Senator La Fontaine and Paul Otlet, the Catholic leader, Boer-sart being its president.

The Association of International Societies has received Andersen and those who speak for him with enthusiasm. The association is wealthy through donations not only from the Belgian government, but from private persons and other countries, among which America, represented by Andrew Carnegie, is foremost.

The foundations of the world center
laid by King Leopold at Tervuren will now be redug, and Cosmopolis is to rise on them. This metropolis of proper knowledge and human progress

is to be in the form of a rectangle,
three miles long and two-thirds of a mile broad. It is to be divided into three parts.

The first will deal with physical culture and will be the Olympic. It will contain a colossal swimming basin, a great stadium, gymnasiums for men and women, gardens and grounds for games, fencing arenas and kindergartens.

The second section will be the art center. In it will be a temple of art,
a conservatory of music and tragedy,
a fine art school, an art and music
library and a museum of casts, all situated in the center of gardens containing an open air theater, an open air painting school, botanical and zoological gardens, natural history museum and conservatories.

Will Rise to Height of 1,000 Feet.
The tower of progress and the underground press, over 1,000 feet high, is to render practical services. In immense underground chambers of its basement
the world's printing presses are to be placed, working continually for the bureau of international information,
the offices of which are to be situated in the four walls of the huge arches or pavilions, each seven stories high,
which support the tower.

The first floor of the tower, reared
on those arches, will consist of an immense circular hall. Twenty-four elevators will run from it to the second floor, where will be another huge hall devoted to the general assemblies of congresses. From the second floor sixteen elevators are to be run to the top of the tower. They will pass story after story, each story divided into four sections. In every section there will be the office of an international society, each society connected with the other and with the world outside
by telephones and electric receivers,
telegraph and wireless apparatus.

The tower will be surrounded by an immense searchlight and powerful wireless apparatus. From the railroad depots at its base underground railroads are to run in all directions.

In the square dominated by the tower imposing buildings are to arise,
chief among which will be the international courts of justice and the temple of religions.

In the parks on the outskirts of the town two cathedrals are to be built—
one for Catholics, one for Protestants.

WORDS OF KINDNESS.

A pleasant word spoken in the morning may change the aspect and even the events of the whole day for the person who receives it. If words of kindness were more frequent at home and abroad, how much happier the world would be!
We may say of a kindly temper
that it is like lighting another man's candle by one's own, which loses none of its light by what the other gains.

A Force Proportioned to Its Frame.

The war of 1812 has proved that our free government, like other free governments, though slow in its early movements, acquires in its progress a force proportioned to its frame and that the union of these states, the guardian of the freedom and the safety of all and of each, is strengthened by every occasion that puts it to the test.
—James Madison.

THE ART OF IDLING

It Is a Part of the Indolent Life of the Leisurely Turk.

WHERE SITTING IS EXERCISE.

In the Orient the Placid Natives Regard What We Would Call Loafing
as a Mark of Respectability—A Trip
in a Caique on the Golden Horn.

One of the first words in the Turkish language that I learned to recognize was kyef or kaif. Making kyef was a very common occupation, judging from the number of times that I heard the word used. The dictionary definition of kyef is "health," "pleasure." Health and pleasure are not always synonymous, but they seemed to be in this case, for people who said they had been making kyef always looked both happy and healthy.

To the average American the idea represented by the word kyef is about as foreign as the word itself. You could not possibly make kyef at a football game or a horse race or automobiling up to the limit of police regulations. One thing soon becomes evident to the scientific investigator of kyef.
Whatever it may be, kyef is made without haste, without excitement and,
above all things, without noise.

Leisure, idling if you like, has been reduced to a fine art in the Orient.
There is no place in the world where doing nothing is so respectable. Able-bodied men sit unblushingly at midday
in a coffee house drinking numberless cups of strong, black coffee, smoking a nargile and staring at a chessboard for hours at a time. Loafing we call it in America; in Italy, dolce far niente;
in Turkey, making kyef.

The Oriental is slow and easy in his amusements. He lingers over his pleasures, making them last as long as possible. None too fond of exerting himself, most of his exercise is taken sitting still. The Turkish verb otur, which means "sit," is much used both in word and in action. They sit over a cup of coffee in an out of door cafe,
they sit under a tree smoking a cigarette, they sit for four hours making you a visit, and they may sit the livelong day out in a grassy field or on the banks of a stream doing nothing at all.

The Turks are fond of outdoors. And one is not surprised. The highest point of Constantinople is Tchemlidja, a hill that stands a few miles back from the Scutari landing on the Asiatic side.
The view from this hill is one whose beauty casts a spell that lasts as long as memory lasts. "See Naples and die!"
runs the old saying, but do not die before you have seen Constantinople
from Tchemlidja.

There are many open fields in and about Constantinople to which the people resort on high days and holidays,
the brilliant colors of the native dress
standing out against the greenest green and the bluest blue of the natural background. And everywhere the danzling sheen of water, the silvery, calm surface of the Marmora stretching away in the distance and the blue winding Bosphorus at our feet. There is a hush about a Turkish holiday gathering which is always like a Sunday. Caiques glide noiselessly by, people sit in groups or saunter about on the shore, like the figures in a picture,

everybody making kyef in his own way.

One of the popular resorts for great numbers of people is the Sweet Waters of Europe, a small stream of fresh water flowing into the upper part of the Golden Horn. The best and easiest way to reach this place, the stranger is told, is by rowboat up the Golden Horn. This "best and easiest" way is,
however, a bit trying to the nerves.
Galata bridge, from which the boats
leave, is the busiest spot in Constantinople. You are jostled from before and behind, screamed at in all the languages you ever heard of and frightened nearly to death before you get down the rickety little stairway leading to the landing. Nothing can really happen to you, but you do not know that until afterward. If you should fall into the water you would be promptly fished out by friendly hands amid Maashallahs! In all the tones of the chromatic scale. Down below, you are warned within an inch of your life
about all the things you must not do in the caique. A caique is a small rowboat, the daintiest, most graceful little craft in the world, but it was made to tip over.

If you get away from the landing without being spilled out into the water you breathe one sigh of relief,
but not more than one, for the Golden Horn is very narrow and very busy, and any moment you may look up at the prow of a steamer bearing down upon you at full speed. Behind you, and to the right of you, and to the left
of you, are clumsy freight boats managed by scolding boatmen. And just here one of your oarsmen does what he has forbidden you to do—stands up in his place. Wildly gesticulating, he scolds back in picturesque Turkish at a careless steersman who has nearly tipped you over. After you have had this experience a few times and have escaped with your life you cease to mind it.

Quiet comes at last, and long, smooth stretches of shining water. The motion of a caique is perfect. It glides over the water with no effort at all. The silvery light of the eastern sun, the magic touch of the soft south wind, the voice of the muezzin calling to prayer
from the minaret in the distance—charm you into the land of the lotus.
—Grace Fleming Van Sweringen in New York Tribune.

SAYS THERE'S NO SPECIFIC CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

Rest, Fresh Air, Good Food, the Essentials—Drugs and Serums Ineffective.

In spite of the statements of a number of individuals who have recently claimed that they have found a "cure"
for consumption, the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, the highest authority on this disease in America, declares that there is no information at hand to justify the belief that any specific cure
for tuberculosis has been discovered which deserves the confidence of the medical profession and people.

Backing up these statements the United States public health service declares that outside of the three essentials in the treatment of consumption,
namely, rest, fresh air and good food,
"there is no drug known, however rare or expensive it may be, that has any curative action in this disease. No serum has yet been found that will cure it and there is no plaster or poult-

tice which has any effect on the disease itself."

The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis will in the near future institute a campaign for the suppression of the numerous fake consumption cures, which,
it says, are annually cheating the public of the United States out of no less than $15,000,000, and besides are depriving numerous innocent victims of the chance for a real cure. Consump-tives who are taking remedies of this character will be warned through advertisements and in other ways against the danger of such procedure.

"MERRY WIDOW" SEEKS NEW ROUTE

Special to The Dispatch:

Ironton, Minn., April 9.—The "Merry Widow" as the Cuyuna range train of the Northern Pacific railway has been dubbed, unceremoniously left the rails between Ironton and Deerwood at Crosby Beach this morning.

Engine, tender, baggage car and coach are off the track and the passengers walked the balance of the way.

John H. Hill, the father of Ironton, has always been an advocate of having the "Merry Widow" stop regularly at Crosby Beach and it seems that the train this morning took the initiative and put Crosby Beach on its schedule for a good long stop.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

All the Teachers are Re-Elected—Salary Increase is Voted the Teachers—Other Matters

The school board held its regular monthly meeting and seven members were present. Those absent were Messrs. Duneman, Welch and Wise. In the absence of R. R. Wise, Geo. D. LaBar presided. Supt. W. C. Cobb submitted his monthly reports on the condition of the schools and they were accepted and placed on file.

There was received a petition from Southeast Brainerd citizens asking that the board allow the use of school grounds for play grounds for the children and that the park board install playing apparatus for the children. The petition was referred to the building committee.

The Redpath-Vawter Chautauqua company asked permission of the school board for the use of the South Sixth street school grounds to be used Chautauqua week. Permission was given on promise that the grounds be restored in the same shape as received and that if shade trees were planted and the grounds equipped with play grounds, that they be not destroyed.

The payroll of the teachers, as allowed by the finance committee, was ratified. The janitors' payroll for March and sundry bills were allowed. The board re-elected all the teachers. An increase of salary amounting to $700 was voted for the teachers. The board spent two and a half hours balloting.

HAS BEEN SHERIFF 3 TERMS

Made a Good Record in This County as a Conscientious and Capable Officer

In an interview given this morning, Sheriff Fred J. Reid announced that he would not be a candidate for the office of sheriff at this election.

Mr. Reid is completing his third term and during that time has served the county well as a conscientious and capable officer. He has aimed at all times to serve well the people of Crow Wing county and that he so succeeded is shown by the friends he has in every section of the county who assert that he is one of the best sheriffs the county ever had.

Mr. Reid expressed no definite plans for the future. He has farming and business interests which will claim his attention when he leaves the sheriff's office.

SALOON ROBBED

John Hughes' Place Broken Into Last Night and Robbed of Goods Valued at $25

Thieves last night between the hours of 11 o'clock Wednesday night and 12:30 or later this morning broke into and entered the saloon of John Hughes in Northeast Brainerd and stole about $25 worth of brandy, whiskey and cigars.

The extortion of getting into the saloon, which consisted of tearing off a storm window, removing several bars and breaking a rear window, caused the thieves to get thirsty and they are supposed to have sat down and disposed of a quarter keg of beer which had been tapped earlier in the evening.

Passersby in this section of Brainerd noticed after midnight a broken bottle of brandy near the bridge and this leads many to believe that the robbery was committed at the time first mentioned. Mr. Hughes notified the police and Chief Quinn promptly made an investigation. To stimulate the search for the thieves, Mr. Hughes has offered a reward of $25 for their apprehension and conviction.

COMMISSIONERS PROCEEDINGS

Proceedings of the Board of County Commissioners, Meeting Held April 7th, 1914

Board met at court house at 10 o'clock a. m. All members present. Minutes of the last meeting read and approved.

Final acceptance of district engineer of the contractors work on the bridge across the narrows of Rabbit lake, north of Cuyuna was read before the board. A motion was made and carried that the same be approved and the auditor was directed to issue his warrant in the sum of $2000 to the Security Bridge company in payment of the county's share as soon as written order was filed from the village council of Cuyuna.

A letter was read from the superintendent of the sanatorium in Otter Tail county stating that outside patients would be received there for $10.00 per week of which the state would pay one half in the case of non-pay patients. Mr. Richardson of Emily, appeared and reported that he had two girls aged 9 and 11 years that should be sent there but he was not able to stand all expenses. He was advised to have the girl examined by a physician and make application and in case the patients were received the county would give some aid.

Chas. G. Osterlund, O. P. Erickson and others from Deerwood and Rabbit lake urged the board to spend the $6000 allotted to state highway No. 6 this year on the road between Deerwood and Aitkin county rather than between Deerwood and Brainerd. On motion it was decided to take the matter up with the highway commission.

The Midway Telephone company made application for right of way for pole line in the south part of said town and on motion the same was granted.

The officers of the Oak Lawn Telephone company also applied to have their action ratified in placing poles on the South Side of the Oak street road from the town line on the east of said town to the west line of section 28. On motion the request was duly granted.

ECONOMY MADE CHIEF ISSUE

Gov. Eberhart Files for Renomination on Republican Ticket at the Primaries June 16

HE ANNOUNCES HIS PLATFORM

Favors Retention of Primary Law, Corrupt Practice Act, Reorganization of Departments, Etc.

In filing as a candidate for the republican gubernatorial nomination, I desire to impress upon the people of this state that I stand emphatically for, and will endeavor to secure:

1. Greater care and economy in making appropriations so as to reduce taxation.
2. The retention of the state wide primary law and corrupt practices act so as to enable the people to make their own nominations without dictation by boss-ridden conventions.
3. A continuance of the present policy of state development and publicity, which has within the last five years nearly doubled the value of our farm lands and secured more active settlers than all surrounding states combined.
4. Reorganization of all state departments as outlined in my various messages to the legislature and for which the efficiency commission is now deliberating.
5. Strict enforcement of all laws.
6. Appointment of public officers on the basis of merit only and under strict civil service rules.
7. Effective regulation of all public service corporations so as to secure reasonable rates and adequate service for all.
8. A clean and dignified campaign.

Respectfully,
ADOLPH O. EBERHART.

The most important step taken in this state to work out a practical plan for the reorganization of all state departments is the appointment of the efficiency commission. During recent years legislative appropriations have increased with enormous rapidity. The cause is largely a desire on the part of the legislative members to supply the demands of their respective districts for state funds. Under our present system the appropriations of public funds, the most important work of the legislature, is placed in the hands of a committee appointed by the presiding officers of the two houses, and this committee can make the most effective use in working out the policies of a political organization. The temptation to secure local appropriation is often too strong for the patriotic citizenship of the individual member to resist. With the grab-bag method of obtaining appropriations now prevalent the member who does not get his share of the plunder is too frequently held responsible by his community, because it is reasonably assumed that if the gates were thrown wide open for the distribution of appropriation the individual member could have obtained his share had he been effective. His failure to do so is used by his enemies as a proof that he is not effective and that accordingly he should be replaced by another man. The system results in a log-rolling method which destroys the independence of the member of the legislature and opens the public treasury to raids that are unjustified and are a crime against the tax payers of the state.

There is only one solution, and that is the budget system of making appropriations, so that the actual needs of every state department and institution can be presented to the people before being acted upon by the legislature. Instead of crowding all state appropriations into the last week's session of the legislature, they should be presented in budget form to the tax payers in advance of the legislative session. No relief will come until the people themselves are willing to study and practice economy in handling the funds of the state, and in order to secure intelligent action on the part of the people a budget showing in detail all the needs of the various state departments and institutions should be prepared and published for general distribution.

While the opposition will endeavor, for political purposes, to hold the governor responsible for the increased appropriations, it is a well known fact that no one except the legislature has authority to appropriate money and that the only fund the governor can control is his $5,000 contingent fund. His only authority to control appropriations is through the veto power. This power he exercised at the last session by cutting out of the appropriation bills one-quarter of a million dollars, and would have reduced it very much more had he been allowed under our constitution to reduce items, as well as striking them out altogether. If the people could have a chance to examine the appropriations in advance they could act through their representatives in the legislature and thus prevent unnecessary appropriations and the consequent excessive taxation.

In the distribution of state funds now collected through taxation, the rural sections of the state are very much favored as compared with the large cities. As this is not generally known, the following counties are cited as a means of comparison:

County	Total amount State Taxes Paid 1913	Total amount Received from State 1913	Gain	Loss
Crow Wing	$ 26,214.39	$ 35,349.16	$ 9,134.77
Todd	25,740.43	55,296.85	29,556.42
Steele	27,307.97	41,423.75	14,115.78
Fillmore	45,203.51	75,168.92	29,965.42
Lac qui Parle	34,017.22	447,242.34	13,225.12
Hennepin	825,078.72	339,986.38		485,092.34
Ramsey	492,006.78	197,441.30		294,565.48
St. Louis	1,115,253.19	271,468.17		843,785.02

Thus it will be seen that the three large counties of the state pay into the state treasury in the aggregate $2,432,338.69, and receive in return only $788,895.85; less than one-third of the amount paid, while the rural counties, on an average, receive nearly twice as much from the state as they pay into its treasury in all forms of taxes.

The greatest increase in state taxes this year is caused by the one mill road tax which was passed in accordance with the constitutional amendment adopted by the people at the last general election. In the distribution of this fund the country shares exceptionally well. Hennepin, Ramsey and St. Louis counties pay into the state road and bridge fund $694,227.00, and receive as their share of the allotment only $105,000. These large counties pay nearly $7.00 for every dollar they receive in return, and the $589,227.00 surplus paid by them is distributed throughout the state so that the rural counties receive on an average nearly three times as much money from the road and bridge fund as they contribute.

Here a few outside counties will serve as illustration:

County	Total Road Tax Paid to the State	Amount Received from the State
Crow Wing	$ 7,604.00	$14,500.00
Todd	7,373.03	14,000.00
Steele	7,821.00	15,500.00
Fillmore	12,842.00	16,000.00
Clearwater	2,155.00	14,000.00
Koochiching	6,924.00	19,000.00

In the distribution of state funds it is proper that the rural sections should be favored, because they all contribute to the wealth of the city. What he wishes to secure is greater care and economy in the making of these appropriations. The practice of economy must begin with the taxpayers themselves and must come through an intelligent supervision of legislative appropriations, for as long as the people will demand increased appropriations the legislature will respond. A carefully prepared budget giving in detail all the needs of the various departments and institutions of the state submitted to the people for examination and study in advance of every legislative session is therefore the only effective and practical solution.

license at this time. James T. Hale representing the Townsite company of Woodrow urged that if any license be granted that it be given to the man operating the hotel and was therefore in favor of W. H. Spalding with whom the townsite company had an agreement in regard to the building and operation of a first class hotel. All four licenses were voted down.

Application of Gus Schmidt for liquor license at Oreland was held up on account of defective publication.

Bert Sabin, chairman of the Town of Mission reported that the piling of the bridge at the mouth of Pine River had been heaved up by the ice and that in order to save the bridge, the damage must be repaired. On motion $100 was set aside from the road and bridge fund to the town of Mission for this purpose.

Applications for road money were also received from Dean Lake, Timothy, Sibley, Long Lake, Maple Grove, Fort Ripley and St. Matthias but none were granted for the reason that if the state appropriation of $14,500 is to be accepted and county money appropriated to meet it, all the money in the county road and bridge fund would be needed for that work.

Board adjourned until 7:30 o'clock. All members present.

Plans for three bridges were submitted by the Highway commission, one a 12 foot span between sections 29 and 32 in Bay Lake town, one a 50 foot bridge across the Nokay Sebie river between section 18, township

43 range 30 and section 13, township 43, range 31 and one of 70 feet including two approaches across the Little Pine river on State Highway No. 3 in section 12, township 136, range 27. On motion the auditor was instructed to advertise for proposals on the work, bids to be received by the board on Tuesday, May 5th, at 2 o'clock p. m.

In response to advertisement by the board 12 bids were received for a 30 h. p. tractor suitable for road building and a train of 6 dump wagons holding 3 1/2 yards each. Each bidder was given ten minutes to explain his bid and demonstrate the machinery. After considerable discussion the proposal of the Pioneer Tractor company of Winona was accepted on condition that said company can show to the satisfaction of the board that the engine can do the work required. Commissioners Flansberg and Poppenberg voting no. The price is to be $4,400.00, $1,000.00 October 1st, 1914, and $3,400.00 April 1st, 1915.

A motion was made and carried directing the County Attorney to start proceedings against the city of Brainerd to recover fines and costs in state cases paid to said city account of violations of the liquor laws and the game and fish laws.

On motion an additional $300.00 was set aside from the revenue fund to the county attorneys contingent fund.
